

Why choose ITAB apprentice training?

ITAB combines the best of the professional skills taught by the Polytechnics with the practical, on-the-job training given by employer builders.

This scheme ensures apprentices are taught and assessed by professionals giving them a better range of skills that employers can rely on.

It's superior training in all respects.

- * Designed as a robust and in-depth programme ITAB gets apprentices up to speed with the latest industry standards.
- * More comprehensive than shorter schemes ITAB provides 8000 hours of extensive practical experience and solid theoretical training giving apprentices a broad set of valuable professional skills.
- * ITAB apprenticeships are available throughout New Zealand and apprentices who are currently in other schemes can switch over.
- * Graduates receive National Certificate Carpentry Level 4. Additionally available is the National Certificate In Construction Trade (supervisor) level 4 with an optional strand in Business management, then followed by the National Certificate in Construction (supervisor) Level 5.
- * Fees are set by each Polytechnic and generally cover:
 - All Polytechnic training fees
 - All NZQA fees
 - Training manuals and resource material
 - In some cases All ITAB fees (membership and administration)
- * With ITAB apprenticeships Polytechnics will often recognise any relevant prior experience or cross credits that you may have that can lead to obtaining your qualifications earlier.

APPLY NOW

Anyone, regardless of age or gender can undertake an ITAB apprenticeship. Simply print and complete the application form from our website and post it back to us.

“

It's a big commitment taking on apprentices. With the support of ITAB, I know I'm getting a standard of excellence on my sites to get the job done right.

I want to be the best builder I can. When I finish my training I don't want any job, I want the best job and I know my ITAB apprenticeship will make me stand out.

ITAB was created by Certified Builders together with a number of Polytechnics, construction companies and employers throughout New Zealand.
